Help Avoid Collisions and Entanglements with Right Whales

The North Atlantic Right Whale is Critically Endangered

Right whales are protected in Canadian waters under the Species at Risk Act. Right whales can be injured or killed by collisions with vessels. Please avoid close approaches.

Right whales are difficult to see and are seldom aware of vessels or fishing gear. Do not assume the whales will get out of your way. Where you see one right whale, there are likely more nearby.

If you see a right whale, please record the date, time and position report through:
